Maryam Mohry
b. 1979 Tehran, Iran

Maryam Mohry (b. 1979 Tehran)
lives and works in Tehran

Fueled by lighthearted naive sensibility and a sense of sarcasm, what stands out in Maryam Mohry's works on paper is the narrative quality of her drawings and her passion to fully immerse in the process of creation and experimentation.

Taking advantage of the translucent quality of watercolor and staying away from applying thick layers of paint, she finds watercolor and gouache best for crafting impulsive and plausible stories.

Also a talented sculptor, while addressing environmental concerns, she keeps a sense of playfulness in both her drawings and soft sculptures. And by offering notes of cartoonish eeriness in the humanlike expressions of her characters, she keeps the "game" of story-telling connected within all her works.
